ACADEMY OPENS BRILLIANT LONDON. Pageantry and Splendour of "the Season."

DEBUTANTES READY Scenes of Exquisite Brilliance at Buckingham Palace.

The curtain rises to-day on "Fashionable London," the first act being the opening of the Royal Academy and the last act of all having Cowes for its setting at the end of the season.

Function will follow function from to-day in scenes of surpassing brilliance. Events succeed each other rapidly.

Courts at Buckingham Palace—the Derby—Springer—Epsom—Royal Horse Show—Ascot—Henley, and finally the programme will end with Cowes Regatta.

Only the weather, which last year was kind to fashionable Ascot, has the power to make or mar the London season, which will rival all its predecessors in brilliance.

PROGRAMME OF GAIETY.

Round of Functions Which Rivals the Most Brilliant of Seasons.

The most thrilling of all the events of the season is, of course, "the Derby." "The Derby," the most popular horse race of the year, is run at Epsom.

Soon after the Derby scenes of exquisite pageantry will be witnessed at Buckingham Palace, where the King and Queen will receive their guests invited to their fourth Court.

On that occasion hundreds of lovely young debutantes will not only make their first curtsies before royalty, but will also make their first bow to the eager audience which attends the performance of "Fashionable London."

From then onward scene after scene of surpassing splendour follows.

Ascot, where the world's loveliest frocks and the prettiest racing hats rival the beauty and brilliance of the sunshine (if any), is due on June 19 and June 21, when the race for the Royal Hunt Cup and the race for the Gold Cup will be run respectively.

SPLENDOUR ON THE THAMES.

On June 23 the International Horse Show opens, and the two weeks of the Lawn Tennis Championships commence on June 25.

Soon afterwards (July 4) the most delightful of all the London season's functions—Henley Regatta—begins.

In these four days the gigantic cast of "Fashionable London" lazily spreads itself on punts and dinghies across a long strip of one of the most beautiful spots of the Thames.

The final scenes include polo at Hurlingham, the Oxford and Cambridge cricket match at Lord's, innumerable flower shows and dog shows, the Eton v. Harrow match at Lord's, Sandown Park, Goodwood, and the Cowes Regatta.

There are, of course, innumerable private dinner parties, river parties, tennis parties, and garden parties to attend.

GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP.

Red Hat Caddies Who Signal When Road Is Clear at Deal.

From Our Special Correspondent.

DEAL, Sunday.—Many people drifted up to the Royal Cinque Ports Links today to see the arrival of the leading British players at their final practice for what promises to be one of the most interesting amateur golf championships in the history of the event.

The spectators were disappointed, however, for Cyril Tolley was practically the only prominent man on the links. Most of the Americans revelled in the bright sunshine.

Mr. I. S. Malik, the younger brother of the Indian and Oxford player, who had dark blue turban and beard, also gave an Oriental touch to the course, which was studded with players in sweaters and jumpers of every conceivable shade.

"Direction caddies"—old men with red woolen caps drawn over their bowler hats—looked strangely grotesque among the hills surrounding the blind holes. Their task is to signal when the road is clear.

I saw one of these ancients in a state of great distress at the sixth hole. One of Tolley's partners in a foursome hit his ball on to the beach. None of the players knew where it landed, but the observation caddie frantically signalled its whereabouts. No one, however, took any notice of him, and the old man at length gave it up.

OLD ENGLISH FAIR REVIVED.

Mystery prizes from Uncle Dick, of The Daily Mirror, will be given to child dancers tomorrow evening at the Farnham Carnival, which opens to-day in aid of the Royal Surrey County Hospital.

The extensive programme includes a revival of the old English fair in the principal streets. Special pictures will appear in The Daily Mirror on Thursday and Friday.

LIFE ON RADIO WAVE

Broadcasting Artists to Negotiate on Wages.

EIGHT STATIONS SOON.

The Concert Artists' Association is to negotiate with the British Broadcasting Company for the fixing of a minimum fee for artists who broadcast.

This decision was come to at a meeting of the association in London yesterday, at which the B.B.C., music publishers, concert agencies, song writers, and composers were represented.

The effect of broadcasting on concert artists was universally criticised by Mr. James Glover, a vice-president of the Theatrical Managers' Association.

Broadcasting will take the last piece of bread and butter from our mouths," he said. "The Postmaster-General has allowed almost every interest to be represented on his committee except the amusement industries."

Mr. Arthur Burrows, of the B.B.C., denied that broadcasting was injurious to theatrical interests.

It acted as an advertisement, and he claimed that the purchase of 2,300 theatre tickets in the case of three or four plays which had been broadcast could be definitely traced to the interest thus created.

Between the middle of February and April 28, London, Newcastle and Manchester employed 894 paid "tuners," continued Mr. Burrows. Ultimately there will be eight stations working, employing from 250 to 300 artists each week, and those artists will be paid fees not smaller than those paid by any other recognised organisation.

The committee of the association is to meet and send a recommendation to members.

UNDERGRAD DROWNED.

Cambri ge Man Who Was Missing Nearly Three Weeks—River Mystery.

Missing from his home at Bedford for nearly three weeks, Frank Howard, an undergraduate at Cambridge, has been found drowned in the river near Bedford.

Howard disappeared on the eve of the day he was due to return to the University for the May Term.

RECORD ART SALE.

Pictures Worth Many Thousands To Be Offered at Christie's.

Four panels by Boucher, the French artist, who twenty years ago realised 22,000 guineas at auction, are among Sir Joseph B. Robinson's collection of famous pictures which will be dispersed at Christie's on July 6 and 13, the sale being the record-breaking ever held at these well-known auction rooms.

Every famous artist is represented by one or more masterpiece. Examples of the Italian Schools include "The Day of Judgment," by Fra Angelico, Piero de Cosimo's "The Story of Jason," and two subjects by Ghirlandaio. Other famous pictures and prices previously paid for them are:—

Portrait by Franz Hals £1,000.
A French portrait 1,470.
Constable's "Salutation of George IV" 2,000.
Gainsborough portrait (Mrs. Drummond) 1,000.
Reynolds portrait (Mrs. Mathew) 4,300.
Ronney portrait (Lady Urith Shore) 2,000.

The final chapter of this great landmark in art dispersals is an assemblage of Millais subjects, including "Cinderella," "Cherry Ripe," and "Mistletoe Gatherer."

WIFE'S TOO YOUNG TALE.

Said To Have Thought Marriage Was Void Because She Was Only 17.

There was a reference to three "husbands" at Acton, when Anne K. Hambley, twenty-nine, was remanded on Saturday on a charge of bigamy.

She was charged with bigamously marrying Arthur Williams at Greenwich in December, 1914, and John Cochrane at Dorset in February, 1919, during the lifetime of her husband, Ernest Hambley.

Two detectives said that she stated that she was seventeen when she married Hambley, who enlisted when war broke out, and she thought the marriage was void because she was so young.

ACTRESS TO FIGHT BERWICK.

Mrs. Hilton Philpott (Miss Mabel Russell, the actress) was unanimously adopted on Saturday as Conservative candidate for Berwick in the forthcoming by-election necessitated by the upsetting of petition of her husband, a National Liberal, who polled 11,933 votes, and defeated Mr. W. Runciman by 4,579 votes.

I screamed, but he had gone. The tide was going out swiftly, and I watched his body floating away, as though it would let me.

ROME'S WELCOME.

Great Crowds to Greet the King and Queen.

VISIT TO WAR GRAVES.

Great crowds of Italians will line the streets of Rome this afternoon to greet King George and Queen Mary, who arrive there at three o'clock.

The royal visitors will be met at the station by King Victor Emmanuel and his Consort, with whom they will drive to the Quirinal Palace, where a fitting welcome will be given to Signor Mussolini, the Fascist Premier.

In the evening there will be a banquet at the Quirinal.

The King and Queen had a hearty send-off from Victoria on Saturday afternoon. Lord Curzon and Lord Derby both saw them off, and a number of London Fascisti lined up on the platform and saluted in picturesque style.

The King acknowledged the compliment.

When the royal party reached Dover a royal salute was fired from Dover Castle batteries, and thousands of people cheered the King and Queen as they embarked on the cross-Channel packet Biarritz.

While their Majesties are in Italy they will visit the Italian battlefield graves where 3,616 British officers and men are buried.

To-morrow they will visit the Pantheon and the tomb of Italy's Unknown Warrior.

On Wednesday they visit the Pope. They will return to England on Saturday.

'DAILY MIRROR'S CIRCULATION.'

Wonderful Figures During Month of April.

FIRST AND BEST.

Royal Wedding Issues' Total of 4½ Millions.

That The Daily Mirror fully maintains its position as the supreme daily picture newspaper is shown in the wonderful circulation figures for April.

These figures show a daily average which is indeed remarkable in view of the fact that The Daily Mirror now no longer promises to its readers.

It will be noted with interest that the first of our Royal Wedding Numbers had a circulation of just over 2,000,000, while the second leapt to nearly 2,500,000.

The secret of the remarkable popularity of this journal is due to the fact that it appeals as no other newspaper can to all classes of the community.

The Daily Mirror occupies a supreme position in the pictorial newspaper world not only because it is always first and always best as a daily picture paper, but also because of its unrivalled method of presenting the news of the day.

THE NEWS AT A GLANCE.

The ordinary business man has no time to pore over acres of print to extract the vital happenings of the hour. He sees them concisely summarised in this paper.

In the pages of this journal every woman finds everything in which she takes an interest—how to dress, where to shop, and what to buy for the children. The "Woman's Supplement" on Wednesdays is universally recognised as indispensable to womenfolk.

That all the famous West End drapery establishments realise the immense popularity of this paper is eloquently proved by the keen competition for its advertisement pages.

This journal appeals to every member of the family. Parents read its bright pages of news and its political and social gossip; the children (and even adults) delight in the adventures of "Pip, Squeak and Wilfred," the world-famous pets.

These are some of the reasons why The Daily Mirror is, and will always remain, the supreme daily picture newspaper.

M.P.s' CAMPAIGN TO-DAY AGAINST NEW INCOME TAX

Alarm in Country Echoed in Commons—String of Questions for Chancellor.

HOPE THAT GOVERNMENT WILL GRANT INQUIRY

Property Owners and Occupiers Hard Hit by Plan to Raise £25,000,000 on 9,000,000 New Valuations.

Indignation and alarm, which are felt throughout the country at the increased assessments for income tax on house property, will be reflected in Parliament to-day.

A string of questions bearing on the subject will be addressed to the Chancellor of the Exchequer, and in the evening a meeting of M.P.s will be held at Westminster to consider the situation.

The proposed advances range from 25 to 100 per cent. There are 9,000,000 new valuations, estimated to yield additional revenue of £25,000,000. Small owners especially will be hard hit.

Notice of appeal should be given at once by all who have received blue forms. It is hoped the Government will grant an inquiry before the assessments are acted upon.

INCREASES RANGE FROM 25 TO 100 PER CENT.

Plight of Small Owners Unable to Raise Rent.

BRIEF NOTICE OF APPEAL.

By Our Lobby Correspondent.

A special meeting of M.P.s is to be held at the House of Commons this evening to discuss the situation created by the alarming increase of assessments of property under Schedule A.

The revised valuations affect every householder and property owner outside the London area, and if they became operative they would leave income tax payers in a worse position than ever.

The new assessments are made on the ephemeral values created by the shortage of houses, and notify an advance ranging from 25 to 100 per cent.

Anomals abound, adjoining houses of similar type being assessed for increases at widely varying amounts.

HARD-HIT SMALL OWNERS.

The revised rates will press with particular severity on small owners, since in a vast number of cases it will be some considerable time—in some cases years—before they are able to raise their rents to secure some measure of compensation.

The new assessments are all the more deeply resented since they are made by the central instead of by the local authorities, who naturally have a more intimate knowledge of the values in their respective districts.

Altogether some 9,000,000 new valuations are being made, the additional revenue being estimated at £25,000,000.

Unfortunately, the notice of appeal is exceptionally brief. It must be given within twenty-one days of the receipt of the blue form, and several days have already elapsed.

PROTESTS FROM COUNTRY.

It is because of the urgency of the problem and the strong representations from the country that have been reaching M.P.s that the special meeting has been summoned at the House of Commons this evening.

It is hoped that the Government will institute an inquiry before the assessments are acted upon.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer will be cross-examined on the new assessments in the House of Commons this afternoon.

Captain Albert Martin (Romford, N.E.) will ask the Chancellor to give directions that special consideration shall be given to occupying owners who, in order to secure decent accommodation for their families, have sunk their capital in the purchase of houses at greatly enhanced prices.

Mr. Albert Bennett (Mansfield, Ind., L.) will suggest that the introduction of the new assessment should be suspended.

Mr. D. G. Somerville (Barrow-in-Furness, C.) will inquire why the Inland Revenue Department, for the purpose of the assessment of real property, is unable to accept the valuation of the local authorities, who must be well informed on the subject.

It should be pointed out that the present re-assessment was provided for in the Finance Bill of last year under the Coalition Government.

SCARBOROUGH CONFERENCE.

Over 800 delegates are expected at the annual conference at Scarborough on Wednesday of the Rotary Clubs of Great Britain and Ireland.

Arthur Frank Howard, a missing Cambridge undergraduate, has been found drowned at Bedford.

Lady Greenwood, wife of the former Chief Secretary for Ireland, has given birth to a son.

HEAT-WAVE THUNDER AND LIGHTNING.

Violent Storms and Down-pours in the North.

LONDON'S RIVER RUSH.

Sweltering Crowds Dash to Open the Thames 'Season.'

Although the heat wave abated a little yesterday, it was still warm enough and the sun was still strong enough to attract thousands of people to the riverside, the countryside and the seaside.

The shade temperatures recorded by the Meteorological Office at 2 p.m. yesterday were:

64 degrees at Kew.

70 degrees in South Farnborough.

This was a considerable decrease yesterday in the temperatures recorded during the preceding week, and those who had cast too many cloths were shivering before twilight.

Although London had a scorching week-end, rain, thunder and lightning were experienced in several places in the North.

It may be said that yesterday opened the Thames river season so far as the masses are concerned, and boating at Richmond, Teddington and at other places up the river near London commenced the annual amassing of fortunes which are made by punt and dinghy owners every year.

LIGHTNING DISPLAYS.

In the north and west, however, there were heavy rainstorms during the week-end. Cardiff, Bath, Leicester and Birmingham had their county cricket fixtures interfered with.

The May Day festivities at Knutsford, Cheshire, concluded in drenching showers, and the Wigan Labour Party's May Day demonstration was almost ruined by a terrific downpour, the speakers standing under umbrellas.

On Wednesday night the weather turned simultaneously in South Lincolnshire on Saturday night, and such magnificent displays of lightning have scarcely ever been witnessed.

Upwards of thirty blinding flashes per minute were counted, and the sky was incessantly aglow with them for nearly two hours.

There was a deluge of rain, and the parched vegetation was greatly relieved.

A bank of brilliant summer weather at Scarborough was followed on Saturday night by a severe thunderstorm and heavy rainfall lasting several hours. Yesterday it was gloriously fine.

RUSH TO RIVERSIDE.

Thousands of Londoners Seek Coolness in Hampton Court Gardens.

A large number of people took advantage of the fine weather yesterday to visit the gardens of Hampton Court Palace, which are now a blaze of colour.

Watermen on the Thames between Richmond and Hampton Court experienced the busiest day of the season.

The river was dotted with craft of all descriptions. Paddington was a popular method of keeping cool off the foreshore at Hampton Court.

Thousands of motorists and cyclists returned through Kingston last night from the Surrey uplands and beauty spots, which are now covered with bluebells.

The revival of the old cycling days was seen at Kingston when a triplet push-bicycle, ridden by two men and a woman, seated behind each other, passed through the streets.

The famous chestnut avenue in Bushey Park, Hampton Court, is now in blossom, and by next Sunday—Chestnut Sunday—the trees in the mile-long avenue should be at their best.

ANTIQUES STOLEN.

Burglars' Haul Includes Family Heirlooms—Motor Thieves on Tour.

Antiques valued at nearly £600 were stolen in the early hours from the Cedars, the Bedfordshire residence near Roxton of Mr. Henry Jackson.

When Mr. Jackson came downstairs he found that the glass in a French door had been smashed and his keys taken from the drawer in which they were kept.

Many of the missing articles were heirlooms. The police believe the burglary to be one of a series by men touring the country by motor.

Four Days' Auction of Things That Passengers Forgot.

Thousands of umbrellas and walking-sticks, travelling rugs, bags, fishing rods, golf clubs and tennis rackets, left behind in trains by passengers on the South-Western section of the Southern Railway, are to be disposed of at a four days' auction sale which opens to-day at Waterloo Station.

Other goods to be sold include riding whips, camp and other bedsteads, desk chairs, furniture, bicycles, mail carts, jewellery, gramophones, motor tyres, and even surgical instruments.

There is quite a quantity of new and second-hand wearing apparel, china, glass and ironmongery.

LOVE AND POISON TALE.

Wife Acquitted of Charge of Killing Husband and Two Children.

Charged with having poisoned her husband and two children, Mrs. Gaiole has been acquitted, says a Central News Totem telegram.

The most emphatic witness for the prosecution was Dr. Chiappero, the fatigued doctor and one-time lover of Mine, Gaiole, who swore she had poisoned her family.

Other medical evidence was to the effect that the husband and children were not victims of poison, but of influenza, which was very prevalent at the time of their deaths and swept many families away.

Eric Jones, aged ten, saved Marjorie Gill, a five-year-old girl, from drowning when she fell into the canal at Baneswell, Newport.

HOW DID THAT HAPPEN?—The captain of Girton College cricket team howled by a tricky ball in the first match of the season, played against Bedford College at Cambridge in splendid weather.

A RARE CAPTURE.—Mr. Harris, who has just returned to England with a large collection of small animals and birds from India, with a white monkey caught by him in the jungle.

PENALTY OF SACRIFICE.—William Marvell, a Newcastle man, said to have been refused continued payment of unemployment benefit on the ground that he was unable to give his blood for transfusion.

MONDAY, MAY 7, 1923.

THE VISIT TO ROME.

THE King and Queen will arrive in Rome this afternoon, for the first official visit to be paid by our reigning House to the "Third Italy," as the Italians used to call it: the first visit to Rome as the capital of a more than ever "united" country.

They will find, indeed, a very new Italy; banded, as never before, under the strong hand of a dictator.

How long this Fourth Italy, as we may name it—the Italy of the Fascisti—will remain in its present condition of forced equilibrium it is not the moment to ask. Let us say merely that our King and Queen will find the Italians undergoing a deep transformation from what used to seem their ancient habits of careless acquiescence in old political forms to a sterner efficiency forced upon them by their economic plight after the war.

Their Majesties will observe all this with a diplomatic detachment. It is enough for them and for us to hope that their visit may strengthen the sentimental and historical bonds of goodwill that unite us with one of the most lovable of Latin peoples.

NATIONAL ART.

ARE we after all growing more artistic as a nation, in spite of the ever-invading industrialism which Victorians like Ruskin and William Morris held to be the great enemy of art?

The Prince of Wales' encouraging speech at the Royal Academy dinner excellently illustrates our improvement by a reference to our street hoardings. It is a good point.

Think, you who are middle-aged, of the mere printed emphasis, made monotonous by endless repetition, in old days when it was for the most part enough to state, in staring type, the fact that Somebody's soap existed or that Somebody Else's hair restorer would turn a Bishop's denuded head into a wild bushman's inextricable mop!

Now many amusing designs adorn our hoardings—landscapes, "problems," interiors, still life, even futuristic suggestions. Certainly, it is an improvement.

The Prince found another symptom of better taste in the "real beauty and dignity" of some of those war memorials and all of those cemeteries he has recently visited in Northern France. That remark, too, is justified.

Only we hope it will not be twisted, as the President of the Royal Academy seemed to hint that it might, into a renewed demand for a "great National War Memorial to commemorate the great war."

No, no! We have our War Memorial—simply expressive, as it should be, of the greatest of human tragedies. It is the Cenotaph, already consecrated by the affection of the thousands of pilgrims who have passed it.

EVERYBODY'S SEASON.

DURING the warmth of the week-end, the Parks were crowded with happy people listening to the engaging rub-a-dub of military music under the trees.

This multitude, in more or less sunnery clothes, proved that Everybody's London season has brilliantly begun.

For if the "Private View" and Ascot and Goodwood still conventionally mark the stages of the social progress, the delights of fine summer days in London are no longer confined to the "happy few." There is a new open-air universality about these later seasons which makes them much more representative of tastes and manners in every class than the old fashioned parades were in Du Maurier's time, when Mrs. Ponsonby de Tomkyns gathered the "lions" about her and turned up her pretty nose at "nobodies."

DO THEY LIKE LONELINESS?

LET me remind a "Curious Man" that no woman really likes being alone.

She goes to the theatre, the concert, or the cinema alone simply because no man has asked her to accompany him to these places.

A LONELY WOMAN.

I NOTICED that a "Curious Man" wonders why women prefer to go shopping and to a theatre alone.

There are some people who prefer to be lonely than to have dull friends.

Queen's Gate, S.W. HAPPY WHEN ALONE.

THEATRE BORES.

"WEARY PLAYGOER" has named many of the theatre bores, but he has omitted the most irritating of all—the man who has seen the play before and comes along to tell his neighbours he should be made aware of the fact.

His chatter is always an act ahead, and scowling faces around him fail to make any impression.

LONG SUFFERING.

Wimbledon.

PITY THE ARTISTS!

I WONDER if the time will ever come when visitors to Burlington House will say the show is better than last year's?

Every year the exhibits are deemed as being the poorest ever shown.

This is so inspiring to artists!

CAMEL-HAIR.

DO WE KNOW LONDON?

M. R. E. F. FORSTER advances satisfactory excuses for the Londoner who does not know London—but can he find a Parisian who is ignorant of his city or a New Yorker who does not know New York?

The middle-aged Londoner, at any rate, generally refuses to budge once he is home from work, the day being finished for him.

In Paris or New York the end of work merely signifies the beginning of pleasure, and the JOYS OF A LONDON SEASON IN MAY.

BRILLIANT PROSPECTS FOR THIS YEAR'S FESTIVITIES.

By E. B. OSBORN.

I ALWAYS feel a "heart renewal" within me at the beginning of the season.

Many years ago Mr. Punch drew a picture of country cousins in pork-pie hats alighting at Baker-street and inhaling the vanished sulphur fumes. One of them exclaims ecstatically: "O, Milly, can you smell the sea-

The doubtful rapture of that metropolitan odour cannot be recaptured, but the ecstasy was mine also, thirty years ago, when I used to come up from Oxford for the inter-Varsity match to enjoy the social merry-go-round as long as I could afford it, having first of all procured a complete new stock of clothes—on credit!

London was kind to young men then, not inquiring too closely as to whether their jeunesse was golden or only parcel-gilt. She is kinder still to-day, not having forgotten that the Great War was won by subalterns.

Now, as then, her season is essentially a festival of youth; and, though the pace is as much faster to-day as a taxicab is faster than the old-fashioned hansom (the best vehicle ever invented for getting engaged in!), yet the older people are better than ever able to keep up with it.

The chaperon has been abolished since then; the wide-girdled matrons and middle-aged men with bow-windows, who used to clog up every assembly room, have vanished—and their places have been taken by slim fascinating creatures as young looking as their daughters, and debonair small-waisted fathers who can conjugate tango (or even amore at need) as deftly as their sons.

FESTIVAL OF YOUTH.

This is to be the youngest and the most joyous and the best-dressed season London has ever had.

London herself has already put on the beauty of the morning; much more paint has been expended on her facades than last year (I got this from a West End estate agent), and the window-boxes are fuller of brighter flowers. And everybody has new garments—already I have seen creations in all the colours of the rainbow and seventy-seven besides, and confections that look more like apocalyptic fits than mere hats.

It is a great mistake, of course, to assume that the London season exists to-day only for those who live on the right side of the Park.

It is the most inclusive of all English institutions; nobody in any of the seven social circles escapes its blithe contagion. Probably more than £100,000,000 will be spent on this year's festival, and Mme. Mai—London's Mistress of the Robes—very well knows that the suburbs are her most profitable clients.

Even the poorest of the "New Poor" will devote a large portion of that sixpence off the income tax to the purchase of new frocks and new suits, and so forth. Labour, with a big, big I, does itself well in this matter; the wives of those play-boys of the Easton world (our future rulers) are often so smart as to make one's eyes ache a little. And labour folk, who must pay for their gauds by small weekly instalments, would sooner be gaily dressed at Whitsuntide than "eat roast beef to the sound of trumpets"—and who dare blame them for it?

TO-DAY'S GOSSIP

News and Views About Men, Women and Affairs in General

Two of the season's debutantes—Miss Millicent Hawke, daughter of Sir Anthony Hope Hawks, the novelist, and Miss Cynthia Favers, granddaughter of Lady Emily Chichester.

THE SEASON.

London Entertainments — Team-Work Specialists—The Entomological Drama.

The LONDON SEASON is not so arbitrarily fixed as to period as it used to be, though we still regard the Royal Academy exhibition at Burlington House as the beginning of an intensive period of social activity, and Goodwood Week at the end of July as its close. This year there is every prospect of a return to something like former days as regards the number of entertainments given, though the old extravagance has gone for good.

COUNTRY WEEK-ENDS.

Owing to the motor-car the London season is much more "mobile" than was the case when a family came to town at the beginning of May and stayed solidly in their quarters till it was time to go to the country in August. Nowadays there are many week-end house parties in the country at the very height of the season, just as there are little trips to the West End during the "close" periods.

Out of London.

And when one comes to think of it, many of the most important events of the London season do not take place in London at all. A fashionable crowd flocks to Oxford for Eights Week and to Cambridge for May Week, the former being the last week in May and the latter, despite its name, the first week, or thereabouts, in June. Then there is the Derby at Epsom, the Royal Horse Show at Richmond, the Ascot Week, which this year opens on June 19, the regatta at Henley and finally Goodwood.

Welcome Strangers.

One feature of the present Season will be the large number of visitors to London from America and from various foreign countries. There are a great many Japanese in London now, and more are coming. They regard events like the Academy, the Derby and Eton and Harrow match as typically English.

The Courts.

The King and Queen, after their return from Italy, will not be in London long, for they have arranged to spend Whitsuntide at the Royal Pavilion, Aldershot, returning in time for her Majesty's birthday on May 26. There will be four evening Courts at Buckingham Palace, the first being fixed for May 30. From that time onwards their Majesties will have a continuous round of social engagements, concluding with Cowes Regatta at the end of July.

White Lodge.

The Duke and Duchess of York will not be able to go to live at White Lodge yet awhile, as there is a good deal to be done to the place. Lord Farquhar and his late wife never used it much, and less than ever in later years.

Luncheon Concerts.

The season's charitable functions include at least one novelty. Dame Clara Butt begins to-morrow a series of "Luncheon Charity Concerts" for London's Dreary Dockland. The idea is that you go to the Savoy ballroom, give up half your ticket to hear a concert, and when that is over take the other half of your ticket into the restaurant and present it to a waiter, who will serve you with lunch.

The Constellation.

The concerts will be given every Tuesday up to and including June 5, and Dame Clara Butt and her husband, Mr. Kennerley Rumford, will sing at each concert. Among those who have promised to assist are Lady True, Miss Gladys Cooper, Mr. George Grossmith, Mr. Leslie Henson, as well as many leading musical artists. To-morrow the Princess Royal will be present.

Dame Clara Butt.

Lord Rosebery's Birthday.

The Earl of Rosebery is seventy-six to-day, and he will pass the day at The Durdens, Epsom, which may be rather a disappointment to him, as he wanted to be at his Scottish seat, Dalmeny. His lordship does not appreciate being congratulated on his birthday, and last year he made remarks to the effect that he thought each succeeding birthday was something to get gloomy about.

Cures for Insomnia.

For some years Lord Rosebery has been an invalid. Almost all his life he has been a martyr to insomnia. He has tried every suggested remedy, from massage to auto-suggestion. Years ago the policemen on the Mayfair beat sometimes used to see a solitary figure pacing round Berkeley-square at three o'clock in the morning. It was Lord Rosebery trying to walk himself into a somnolent condition.

Plum and Apple.

Sir John and Lady Lister-Kaye, after living in hotels for some years, have at length settled in a house, and have taken for the season the one belonging to the Countess of Wilton in Park-street. It is not too big a place, but contains some charmingly-furnished rooms, the colour scheme in the drawing-room, with its plum-coloured curtain allied to green walls, being distinctly striking.

Mr. Beetle.

Mr. A. Bromley-Davenport gives a subtle performance as the Beetle in the much-talked-of "Insect Play," which was produced at the Regent Theatre on Saturday night before an unusually brilliant audience, which contained a record number of side-whiskers. The intellectual young man of the day who is concerned with the Arts seems to regard the side-whisker as a hallmark. Mr. Beetle had side-whiskers.

Mr. Bromley-Davenport.

Many of the beautifully-gowned women in the audience wore their hair in the Spanish widow-curtain style, which is also, I believe, indicative of brains. The brothers Capek, who have written this interesting piece of pessimism about Life and Mankind, are the head and front of the modern dramatic movement in Czechoslovakia. The Great War seems to have fashioned their outlook.

Coming of Age.

The coming of age celebrations of Sir Windham Frederick Carmichael-Anstruther will take place early in August at Carmichael House, Lanarkshire. Meanwhile he and his mother, the Hon. Mrs. Hanbury Tracy, have given a dinner to their friends in London, among the guests being Lord and Lady Sinclair, Lord and Lady Chesham, Sir John and Lady de Robeck, Sir Samuel Scott, Lady Marjorie Murray, the Hon. Victoria Bruce and Miss Betty Manners.

Beauty Doctors.

It is proposed in France to restrict the profession of "beauty doctor" to fully qualified medical practitioners. A good many Continental physicians do, as a matter of fact, specialize in that branch of the medical art. Dr. Kapp, the German physician who looked after the civil prisoners at Ruhleben, had been, before the war, a beauty doctor in Bond-street.

Bullingdon Club.

The talk about the aristocratic exclusiveness of the Bullingdon Club at Oxford is being somewhat overdone. The society is certainly exclusive; but wealthy men, of recent years, have been able to secure admission to it, if they have been at good public schools, even if they did not belong to old county families.

All the Difference.

Apropos of the "sporting parson" controversy, I am reminded of the story of the hunting vicar who was reproved by his Bishop for his love of the sport. This parson could not see that he was more to blame than his lordship, who had attended a county ball. "But," returned the Bishop, "I was never in the same room as the dancers." "Nor I, my lord, in the same field as the hounds," was the parson's reply.

Lord Brownlow's Pictures.

It seems only yesterday that the late Earl Brownlow told me at Ashridge Park one day that his picture of the "View on the Maas near Dordrecht," by Cuyp, was the best in his collection. And on Friday it brought £18,375 at Christie's. But the Vandyke surpassed it at 28,000 guineas, which, I am sure, would be a surprise to his lordship, could he know. He was an artist himself and showed me that day a panel he had done of a patient of John o' Gaddesden swallowing a pill!

Doctors' Team Work.

There is a very successful "team" of doctors working in a magnificent house in Mayfair. All celebrated men, too, each a specialist in his own line. They beat Harley-street in the appearance of their consulting-rooms, which are delightful. If first impressions are of any value their patients ought to feel better as soon as they get inside the doors.

Cheaper Consultations.

These doctors working together make it cheaper, I am told, for the patient. To consult, say, a nerve specialist, a dental surgeon and a heart expert one after another at three guineas each—not at all an uncommon thing for a "nervy" patient—means nine guineas if the doctors work separately. But the "team" under one roof can do it much less than that.

Lady Louis in the Office.

Lady Louis Mountbatten, who is helping to organise a matinee at the Winter Garden next Friday, takes work very seriously. She arrives at the office with Mrs. Gordon Moore, takes off her hat and settles down to write letters, send off tickets, etc., in a most business-like manner.

From My Diary.

To travel hopefully is a better thing than to arrive, and the true success is to labour.

R. L. Stevenson.

Miss Queenie Thomas, who, with Miss Peggy O'Neil, will judge the costumes at the London Club Ribbon Carnival on Thursday.

Counter-Lectures.

The interesting series of lectures and counter-lectures arranged to help the London hospitals will be continued to-morrow at the London School of Economics, when Mr. Alfred Noyes will talk about modern poetry and Miss Edith Sitwell will reply. The following week Mr. C. A. McCurdy and Mr. G. K. Chesterton will dispute about modern journalism. Other counter-lecturers include Mr. Sinclair Lewis, the author of "Main Street."

Mr. Asquith's Secretary.

Mr. Basil Herbert, who succeeds Mr. Vivian Phillips as secretary to Mr. Asquith, is an Oxford man, but not of Balliol like his chief. Mr. Herbert went up to Christ Church from Westminster School. He was a prominent figure at the Oxford Union, but did not reach the presidential chair. He was, however, president of the Oxford University Liberal Club. During the war Mr. Herbert saw active service in France and Belgium, winning the M.C.

Pensions in Irish.

I hear that the old-age pension books now being issued to pensioners in the Irish Free State are printed partly in English and partly in Gaelic. They are marked "Pensin Shean-Aoise," which is, it appears, the Irish equivalent for "Old-Age Pension." One old man remarked when the innovation was pointed out to him: "Begob, I don't moind how they print 'em so long as I gets me tit-bob every week."

PIP, SQUEAK AND WILFRED

OLD FRIENDS.

At Home.

MY DEAR BOYS AND GIRLS,—

There are three kinds of letter writers—those who write regularly, those who write when they feel like it, and those who mean to write and never do! I have hundreds of nephews and nieces who have never written me at all, but I know they read my letter every morning; and probably think about me sometimes, so I don't mind. Then many of you just write me one letter, or perhaps two. When I read these letters—from Tom, of Battersea, and Kathleen, of Glasgow—I wonder who these children are, and what they look like—children I have never heard of before, and probably shall never hear of again!

But some boys and girls—quite a good number, in fact—write to me regularly. Every week they send me many little letters, telling me about their rabbits and their kittens, how they are getting on at school, and that little Arthur has the measles, and they are going to Margate for their holidays.

These letters are very cheery to read. They make me feel that everyone is so friendly. I should love to know you all, and have jolly games with you in a garden somewhere. But, of course, that would be impossible—I couldn't possibly meet every single one of you.

Some names, however, I see so frequently that I have got to know them like old friends—as indeed they are.

I find myself looking out for them each day, and I am quite disappointed if by some chance one of them does not make an appearance in my postbag one week.

Yours affectionately,
Uncle Dick.

PETER SPOILS PIP'S TRAP FOR POPSKI.

1. "Whatever are you doing?" asked Squeak, when she saw Pip digging a big hole in the ground.

2. Pip explained that he was covering the pit over with sticks and grass, and on the top—

3.—he was placing a model Wilfred, so that when Popski came he would fall into the trap.

4. In great excitement the pets, hiding in the toolshed, waited for the Boisie hound to come.

5. Suddenly there was a tremendous crash from outside, followed by howls of fear and rage.

6. Rushing out, the pets found that it was Peter who had fallen into the trap instead of Popski!

Digestible Cocoa

Next to its nourishing properties, the great merit of Savory & Moore's peponised Cocoa and Milk is that it is quite easy of digestion. It can be taken and enjoyed, without fear of disagreement, even by those who have to exclude tea, coffee or ordinary cocoa from their dietary. It is thus especially useful for Invalids, Convalescents, Dyspeptics and all who suffer from digestive weakness.

It is renowned for its remarkably fine flavour, and as it needs neither milk nor sugar, it has the further advantage of being easily and quickly prepared.

LADIES' MIRROR

LATEST COIFFURE—RIBBONS AND VANITY BAGS.

If you descend unexpectedly upon your dearest friend and she greets you looking exactly as though you'd caught her on her way to the bathroom—don't be misled. She has only adopted the latest Parisian coiffure.

HOW IT'S DONE.

This means that you strain back your hair from the forehead and ears, screwing it all into an untidy knot high up at the back of the head. If yours is the type of beauty that won't be taken liberties with, don't attempt it. Only the brave deserve the fashions of to-day.

COOL IN VELVET.

I dashed into the Hyde Park Hotel to dance and see the fashion tablau organised by "Cintra," who is, as you doubtless know, the Hon. Mrs. John Fortescue, wife of the King's Librarian. Although the day was warm and the room crowded, she wore a porcine of black velvet, and somehow managed to look cool in them. Quite an art. Her cap was a joy. One of those close-fitting skull-cap affairs with a single wide plume hanging perfectly straight down one shoulder.

THEIR PLAINT.

Princess Louise, charmingly gowned, took her tea coolly on the balcony, and we indefatigables, in our long skirts and wide hats, fox-trotted. "So tired of fox-trots," many of the dancers were exclaiming.

CELLULOID TRIMMING.

The frocks were as pretty as their names. Hydrangea, all mauve and blue ninon. Blue Bird, blue and gold Italian brocade. Primrose, a cream-coloured velvet brocade trimmed with white and gold marabout. Egypt, all green and gold and silver, Deauville, an oatmeal-coloured suit embroidered in scarlet collared. Forked Lightning, mauve, and gold brocade striped in gold and black. Gloire de Dijon, a peach-coloured taffeta covered with roses of taffeta—and many, many more.

ALL DONE BY RIBBONS.

If you have a way with ribbons, and are skilful and artistic in their manipulation, you stand a chance of winning a Paris frock, while your dancing partner—if you carry away the first prize—receives a sporting suit of "plus fours." All these happenings are to take place at the Ribbon Carnival held at the London Club next Thursday. You must show artistic skill in decorating your gown with ribbons and small, tasteful colour scheme stands just as good a chance as an elaborate trimming. The ballroom will be circled by yellow, purple and green streamers, and we shall look like ribbon remnant counters in full "sale."

ABOUT HANDBAGS.

The day of the, oh! so obliging portmanteau hand bags seems to be over. Bags are getting smaller. Indeed, so small are the chic little boudoir pochettes, that it is all one can do to stow away an inch-wide square of cambric and lace hanky and a lipstick. But, then, they have a tiny concealed notebook, and that makes up for a lot.

PHILLIDA.

Frocks are becoming a little more complicated with their accordion pleated panels and little lace aprons.

PESSIMISTIC SATIRE ON LIFE.

Insect Play Shows Only Follies of Mankind.

LESSON OF THE ANT.

By Our Dramatic Critic.

"The Insect Play," produced at the Regent Theatre on Saturday evening, is by the Brothers Capek, the Czechoslovakian playwrights, one of whom is the author of the highly original "R.U.R.," now running at the St. Martin's.

All who are more than casually interested in the drama will want to see "The Insect Play," which will certainly achieve a success of its own.

The piece is a pessimistic allegory of Life, the aim of the authors being to show the follies of mankind as mirrored in the habits of the insect world.

For the purpose of their satire they conveniently ignore all the nobler qualities of the insects.

In the prologue we are introduced to a tramp and a Lepidopterist.

The latter is catching butterflies. He explains that he does so in the interests of science and because of his love of Nature.

The Tramp wonders why a man who loves Nature should destroy it.

The scenes that follow illustrate with a cynical humour the struggle for existence in the entomological world, each kind of insect approximating to some type of human character.

MAKING THEIR PILE.

Thus Mr. and Mrs. Beetle are concerned only with making their pile, which is then carried off by Robber Beetle; young Mr. and Mrs. Cricket are proceeding to settle down to domestic joys when the happy wife is captured by the cruel Ichneumon Fly, who thinks he has done a creditable thing in providing a meal for his little ones.

"And so ad infinitum." Each species preys on the other.

When we come to the ants we find that the authors have prepared a biting satire on the modern state, which, through industrial organisation, prepares the machinery of war.

The tramps sees it all and asks in despair, "Why can't we all be 'appy together?"

The play provides no answer to this pertinent inquiry.

The authors leave us where we were. They do not, as in "R.U.R.," scrap this "sorry scheme of things entire" and suggest a new Adam and Eve to begin all over again.

The play is always interesting, even when it is most cynical, and it has dramatic moments. The acting is excellent. Especially good are the Tramp (Edmund Willard), Mr. and Mrs. Beetle (A. Bromley Davenport and Maire O'Neill), the Ichneumon Fly (Ivan Berlyn), and Mrs. Cricket (Angela Baddeley).

Good work was also done by Claude Rains in a variety of guises.

TIKHON "DEGRADED."

Moscow Abolishes Rank of Patriarch — Citzen Belavin Now.

A resolution condemning the Patriarch Tikhon, who was declared to be deprived of all clerical and monastic rank was read at the Russian Church Convocation at Moscow on Saturday, says Reuter.

He is to be known as plain Citizen Vasili Ivanovitch Belavin.

Resolutions were also adopted granting the higher clergy the privilege of marriage, and abolishing the official Patriarch.

The Patriarch Tikhon is and is head of the Orthodox Greek Church in Russia, and is charged with various offences against the Soviet régime, including a refusal to hand over to the Bolsheviks the jewels and sacred vessels of the Church.

TOM WEBSTER'S ANNUAL

Book to Tell People That Certain Statements Are Absurd.

Mr. Tom Webster, the famous cartoonist, whose work appears from day to day in The Daily Mail, Evening News and Weekly Dispatch, published his fourth annual to-morrow.

In the foreword he says:—"About a year ago I received a letter from—I hope—a lady asking me to do all I could to suppress sport, as it was brutal."

"Now, Euclid published his first book just for the satisfaction of telling people that certain statements were 'absurd.' This is the reason for my fourth book."

It is certain that Mr. Webster is unlikely to do anything to suppress sport.

To the contrary, he has spent his sport but brilliant career in promoting it in his own inimitable way.

And even if, as his correspondent suggests, some sport is brutal, no one can accuse Mr. Webster of brutality.

Although he has a weakness for portraying other people's weaknesses, his caricatures are never cruel.

He is a kindly cartoonist with an unequalled and inexhaustible fund of humour.

Tom Webster's Annual will be obtainable at a shilling.

HIS LUCKY YEAR.

Table Tennis Victor's First Season for Ten Years.

WELL KNOWN IN WEST.

Though the victory of Mr. J. Thompson, of Bristol, in The Daily Mirror All British Table Tennis Championships seems to have caused some surprise in London, it was not unexpected by his Bristol friends, as he is a well-known West Country player.

In 1909 he won the championship of the West of England League, having previously reached the final in 1907.

Mr. Thompson started playing table tennis in 1904.

He continued to follow the game keenly until just before the war, when he gave it up and did not play again until he decided to enter The Daily Mirror competition this season.

He has only once played in a league match, all his practice having been gained in friendly games.

He is an unattached player, owing to the fact that the Bristol League lays down a rule that only wooden-faced rackets shall be used.

Mr. Thompson adopted the rubber-faced racket in his early playing days and has always stuck to it.

Mr. Thompson says he would be pleased to play a level match with Mr. Percival Bromfield (London), whom he beat in the final.

£4,000 LIQUOR LINERS.

Celtic and Carmania Leave for New York with Stores as Usual.

Both carrying their customary stock of liquors to the approximate value of £4,000 each, the White Star liner Celtic and the Cunarder Carmania left Liverpool on Saturday for New York.

The U.S. Treasury has warned "shipping everywhere" that from June 10 the new dry law will be strictly enforced.

President Harding is represented as taking the view that ships must be "absolutely dry"—which is in conflict with the Supreme Court's decision.

POLICE PARADE SCENE.

Dublin Photographers Resent "Keep Twenty Yards Away" Order.

From Our Own Correspondent

DUBLIN, Sunday.—Press photographers made a dramatic protest against restrictions imposed upon them at a parade of the Dublin Metropolitan Police in the Castle Street for to-day.

They were not allowed to go within twenty yards of the Chief Commissioner, General Murphy, who was meeting the men for the first time since his appointment, and some who ventured nearer were hustled away.

The photographers held a meeting straightaway, and in a written protest to the Home Secretary announced their determination to destroy cameras exposed and to attend no more parades of the Dublin police or any functions connected with it unless reasonable facilities were assured beforehand.

An investigation was held, and Chief Superintendent Murphy subsequently apologised to the photographers, saying an officer exceeded his instructions, and he asked them not to destroy the plates of an historic occasion. This request, however, was declined.

SKATING RINK TRAGEDY.

Attendant Dies After Supposed Quarrel—Man Detained.

A tragic affair at the Brixton Skating Rink, Effra-road, at midnight on Saturday, resulted in the death of one of the attendants, Sidney Martin, aged thirty-six.

It is alleged that a quarrel took place on the lawn at the back of the rink.

A young man named W. Tilling, of Willesden-road, South Lambeth, has been detained in connection with the affair.

Martin is stated to have been struck on the jaw and died without regaining consciousness. He lived in Natal-road, Streatham, and leaves a widow and four young children.

LORD ROSEBURY.

Attends May Day Revels on Eve of Seventy-Sixth Birthday.

The Earl of Rosebury, who will be seventy-six to-day, attended the May Day festival at Epsom on Saturday, accompanied by his little granddaughter, the only child of the late Hon. Neil Primrose.

The celebration took place in the council school.

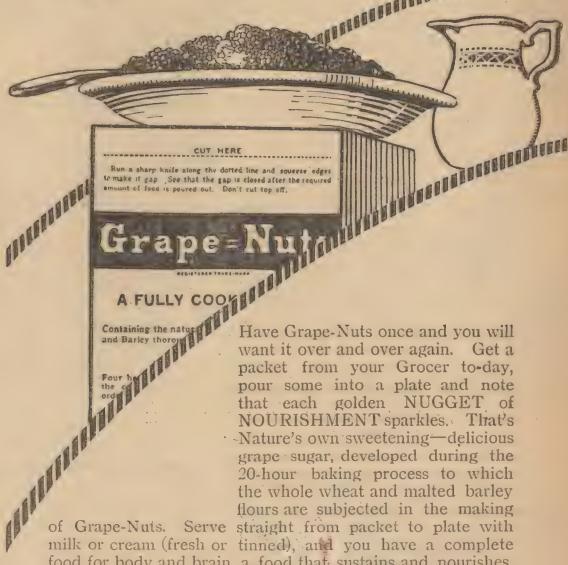

MADMAN WITH IRON BAR.

Hearing screams, neighbours rushed into Salisbury-street, Marylebone, yesterday and found Harry Owlett, forty, half naked and running round a room waving an iron bar.

Four policemen first led him to the bed and strapped him to a stretcher, on which he was removed to Marylebone Infirmary.

Top Gallant's Great Victory at Hurst Park.

Blazing sun for important football matches and rain in many cricket centres was the order on Saturday owing to the vagaries of the English climate. It was a wonderful day, with the Victoria Cup at Hurst Park, the golf internationals at Sandwich and Burnham, and open-air sports of all kinds all over the country.

Racing.—Top Gallant won the Victoria Cup for Lord Penrhyn at Hurst Park, after leading practically from start to finish—great performance for a three-year-old.

Cricket.—A full day's play was only possible in the match at Oxford, where Hallows scored a century for Lancashire.

Golf.—Scotland again beat England in the golf international played at Sandwich. At Burnham England won the women's international championship.

FOOTBALL'S FAREWELL.

Clubs That Take the Honours in £p andid Season.

The season is over and done with a week after it should have expired. The Clerk of the Weather emphasised the absurdity of May football by sending the heat-wave to put strenuous play in the category of grotesque happenings.

But in certain of the matches play was of vital importance, particularly to the clubs at the top and bottom of the Second League table. It is all over now; Notts County are champions, West Ham earn promotion and Leicester fail on an infinitesimal decimal in goal-average.

Clapton Orient and Stockport County saved themselves from relegation, while Rotherham County and the famous old Wolves enter the third divisions to make place for Bristol City and Nelson, the respective champions of the Southern and Northern sections.

FATAL GOAL-AVERAGE.

That really was all that was important in Saturday's football, the last day of the over-drawn season, but it was vital, and the success and tragedy are told in the following scores:

	Goals
	W.	L.	D.	Kragt	Pts	Aver.	W.	L.	D.
Notts County	22	23	7	12	45	54	53	1.35	1.35
West Ham	42	37	14	15	45	51	50	1.37	1.37
Leicester Cty	42	21	9	12	65	44	51	1.47	1.47

It will be seen that had the one-goal win of Notts County over the Hammers been the other way round, Leicester would have had a better goal-average than the County, and would have captured the position. Could anything be closer?

All too much the same may be said of those clubs which were struggling at the bottom of the table. The Wolves had been doomed for weeks, and now e'erlong is hoping to see the famous old team win their way back. Clapton Orient, Stockport County, and Rotherham all won their matches, so that by a single point Rotherham failed.

London is gradually catching up to Lancashire in the matter of First League clubs. Lancashire seven, the Midlands five, London four, Yorkshire three, the extreme North two, and Wales one.

The metropolis did not have a First League club until the Arsenal won promotion in 1904. And Northern critics were scornful of our Southern League till the Sulls won the Cup in 1901. Chelsea got up in 1908, the Spurs in 1910, and now West Ham join the trio, and it is the big four to-day. When will it be the turn of such stalwarts as Millwall, Fulham and the Rangers of the old Southern League days to swell the representation?

The chief stars of the year go to Bolton Wanderers as winners of the English Cup, to Liverpool, Notts County, Bristol City and Nelson as the four League champions. To the London Caledonians as the winners of the Amateur Cup, to Scotland as international Soccer champions, and to England as Rugby champions.

SMALLER LEAGUE CROWDS.

It has been an interesting season, and, despite the bad trade and unemployment, great crowds have watched the more important matches, although there has been a general falling-off in the gates at club matches.

Perhaps this is not an unmixed blessing, for some clubs during the boom time which followed the war had dropped common sense in a mad orgy of spending money on ground improvements and new teams.

The Wembley fiasco is still so fresh in the mind that it does not need recalling, but the pilgrimage to the Stadium from all over the country is clear proof that there is no sport or spectacle in the land with a greater hold on the popular affections.

"Football is dead! Vive cricket!" But we shall all be glad to welcome the return of the big ball game in September." August 1st—May, should be taboo.

HAMMERS' THREE SECONDS.

Lost Opportunities in Match-Deciding Game with Notts County.

West Ham's defeat at the hands—or feet—of Notts County caused much apprehension at Upton Park until the news came through that Leicester had failed at Bury, and so made promotion certain for them. End side.

West Ham could only have had themselves to blame if they had failed to realise their great ambition. They should have made certain of beating Notts in the first quarter of an hour; but poor second-hand play on the part, and a good goal by Billie the County inside left, after thirty minutes play, decided the issue.

Once they got in front Notts were content to maintain their lead, and used every means to keep West Ham at bay.

As a defensive side they command respect, but despite they alter their methods of attack and develop a more cohesive plan they are not likely to succeed in First Division company.

There are a few at Hurst Park, and, as Mr. Syd King says: "Two weeks ago we had a chance of three firsts, the Cup, championship of Second Division and the London Combination. To-day we have to content ourselves with three seconds."

FOOTBALL "INS" AND "OUTS."

Joy in Liverpool and Nottingham, Gloom in Staffordshire.

Saturday brought relief to the minds of those managing many League clubs, inasmuch as their immediate future is now known, whether they are assured of the right to play in the First Division.

Liverpool's retention of the First League championship has for some time been assured. They clinched it Saturday by a victory over Stoke. The Potters, however, had been equally sure of keeping out more than the Second Division, and Oldham Athletic accompany them into the lower circle, from which escape is so difficult.

Nottingham has now both its clubs back in the First Division, the County's convincing win against the Hatters being the main factor in their championship.

The Hatters' gloom is due to the fact that they had to give up the title of one of the most famous of clubs, descended with Rotherham County to the Third Division. Their places are taken by Nelson and Bristol City. Staffordshire football, indeed, is under a cloud with the Potters and the Wolves finding simultaneous relegation.

Nottingham has now both its clubs back in the First Division, the County's convincing win against the Hatters being the main factor in their championship.

In the ladies' singles Mrs. Edgington beat Mrs. Clayton 7–5, 6–4 mainly by an impregnable defence. In the final of the men's doubles Gordon Crole-Rees and W. H. Tucker could do nothing right against Mr. P. Atkinson and Mr. H. H. H. H.

D. L. Craig and Miss J. Reid-Thomas played heroically but unsuccessfully against S. N. Dous and Mrs. Clayton in the mixed doubles. Mrs. Clayton, in partnership with Mr. W. E. Clarke, who plays in a gymnastic attire, beat Mrs. Crole-Rees and Miss Colyer in the ladies' doubles, 6–2, 2–0, 6–4.

LEICESTER'S STAGE FRIGHT.

City Miss Wonderful Chance of Promotion at Bury.

Leicester City, for some time probable champions of the Second Division, lost their hopes of promotion through a defeat by Bury and a decimal place or so in the table.

The Hatters had only to draw to secure promotion, and a win would have given them the championship, but they found Bury right at the top of their form, and there was no respite, no end-of-the-season lassitude about the game.

From the beginning play was as keen as possible, with a little more dash on the part of the Shakers. In the first half there was no score, but immediately after the interval the visitors took the lead.

Leicester never gave up hope, but—whether from stage fright or not—they never seemed to have success in prospect, and when Robbie headed another goal the Midlanders were obviously out of the hunt.

Bradford City have placed Ewart, their international goalkeeper, on the transfer list. He has been with the City since 1912.

England Beaten in the Golf International by 7 to 5.

CHAMPIONSHIP TO-DAY.

English golfers on Saturday suffered their usual experience in the international match with Scotland. It was the thirteenth contest, and Scotland scored their eleventh win. They were successful in three foursomes to two and four singles to three, three matches being halved, and that on the day they won seven games to five.

The Scottish team seemed weak. Edward Blackwell, who is fifty-six years of age, was pressed into service, and other men were chosen for the first team.

Blackwell, putting, was poor. He still kept up with the latter, but he steered the more accurate line.

Blackwell, putting, was poor. He still kept up with the latter, but he holed out some fine putts. Indeed, it was two from about twelve yards which went a long way to enable him and W. Murray to beat Tolley and the Hon. Michael Scott.

The second English pair in the foursomes were Roger Wethered and Colin Aymer, and Carl Bretherston and John Hassall, and it was significant that Wethered and Bretherston also won their singles. The last player may not be very impressive, but he is very sound, and a great match player.

WETHERED'S EXCITING FINISH.

Wethered's win against Willis Mackenzie was a remarkable one. The players came to the last green all square, and when the Scot had run up to within a yard with his third, his opponent was left to roll his ball across the green, and he won despite the bad luck, for Mackenzie failed to get down from a yard.

The best win of the day was that achieved by Robert Harris against the champion, Ernest Holderness. The latter was 2 up with 3 to play, and he lost all three holes in a most unchampionship-like way, and was beaten 1 up.

Tolley was dormy 2 down to John Wilson, the Prewick schoolmaster, and he made one of his plucky finishes, winning the seventeenth and taking the match to the home green, where, however, he could not get a four to avert defeat.

The day is now set for the championship, which begins to-day.

The Americans were getting about the course on Saturday, but without apparently being interested in the competition. The English were not, and W. Murray was the favourite, though his form does not justify him being placed in this position. Francis Onslow and Robert Gardner seem to be the dangerous men.

England Retains International Title—Overseas Players Beaten.

With the decision of the Scotland v. Wales and the England v. Ireland ties, the women's international golf championship was concluded at Burnham (Somerset) on Saturday.

The result of the series was: England won three, Scotland two, Ireland one match, Wales nil.

Mrs. J. B. Watson, the Scottish leader, gained an extraordinary victory over Mrs. John Dun an, the Welsh captain, in the first match, only 10 for ten holes, and Mrs. Watson won one of them, halving the other. The Scottish side won by seven matches to two.

Following the international championship, a match was played between British players who had not taken part and players from overseas who had entered for the individual championship. In this Rest of Britain won by six matches to two. The two matches were E. G. Cooley (England), Mr. Justice Atkin (Australia), and Mrs. Phyllis Lockett (New Zealand).

There was an extraordinary result to the match between Mrs. Guy Williams, the New Zealand champion, and Miss Chambers, the American. After four extra holes had been played, the match was still level, and was then abandoned owing to the torrential rain.
